DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-4, 7-11 and 27 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,692,503 ('503 herein) in view of Oxland et al. (US 5,676,666).

Claim 12 of '503 discloses all elements of the claimed invention except for a bone plate with slots.

Oxland et al. teach a bone plate having elongated slots (Fig. 2, col. 2, lines 64-67 and col. 3, lines 1-12).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used the drill guide of claim 12 to insert fasteners through the slots of the Oxland et al. bone plate since it was well known in the art at the time the invention was made to have utilized a drill guide for proper seating of fasteners in the slots of a bone plate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 and 7-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brace et al. (US 6,342,057) in view of Oxland et al. (US 5,676,666).

Brace et al. disclose a drill guide assembly for use with a bone plate to correctly seat screws in the bone plate, the assembly including: a first guide member 136 and a second guide member 206 extending from a handle 126; each of the guide members having an offset portion adjacent a distal end of the guide member; each of the guide members having a main body portion of a first width, an intermediate portion having a second width less than the first width, and the slot engaging end having a third end less than the second width; and wherein the guide members are configured and dimensioned to fit bone plate fastener holes having an elliptical shape (Figs. 1-2, 6 and 10-12 and cols. 5, lines 19-67 and cols. 6-14). See marked up Figs. 11 and 12 from Brace et al. below.

Brace et al. disclose all elements of the claimed invention except for a bone plate having fastener holes with an elliptical shape.

Oxland et al. teach a bone plate having elliptically shaped holes disposed on opposing sides of a central axis for stabilizing cervical vertebrae (Fig. 2, col. 2, lines 64-67 and col. 3, lines 1-12).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have utilized the Brace et al. device to position fasteners through elliptically shaped holes of a plate, as taught by Oxland et al., since it was well known in the art to use a plate having elliptically shaped holes to stabilize cervical vertebrae.

Regarding claim 11, the combination of Brace et al. and Oxland et al. clearly disclose an offset. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided an offset of 1 mm or more, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments submitted under "REMARKS" in the response filed on July 19, 2007 have been considered but moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5 and 6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
